Brian Brown has reason to expect big things in 2018

By Jay Bergman

Harness racing is a numbers game. When you train two sophomore pacers that each earn seven figures in a single season, you get noticed. Such is the case for trainer Brian Brown who in 2017 had the good fortune to have not one but two standout sophomore pacers in the now-retired Downbytheseaside and Fear The Dragon.

Brown wintered in Florida in 2016-17 with 88 head in his stable including all aged groups. This year the stable has 113 with a majority of juveniles training for their first season on the track.

"We're training a lot more," said Brown from Spring Garden Ranch. "Honestly things are going very smoothly. We haven't missed any time. I've divided the horses in Brown says that his help shows up on time and he shuffles between groups every three days. "I can't sit behind all of them every week but with the rotation I can over a few weeks," Brown said.

Repeating the feats of 2017 may be difficult if not impossible this year or perhaps any year in the future. Top 3-year-olds don't come along that often, let alone two in one particular year. Nevertheless, Brown certainly hopes that there is at least one diamond in the group this year.

"Done Well has trained back in 2:09," said Brown of the undefeated 3-year-old son of Well Said, injured last year after winning his first four starts in impressive fashion.

"Before he got hurt I thought that he had started his career as good or better than 'Seaside' or 'Dragon'. But they did it

LODI JAZZ PLAYER

Parked past quarter, lugged out far turn, stalled. On the plus side. Rarely makes breaks. Lands a good spot as well.

BO PLENTY

Disappeared after first turn miscue in his comeback. Unreliability seems his biggest knock.

INDIO AZTECA

Hasn't got launched from the starting gate in any of his four comeback qualifiers. Adds fresh Lasix and Gerry. Would be a shocker.

GRAVEL GIRL

Rode cones, avoided break. If she repeats that performance, she'll be hard to catch. But iffy is her middle name.

NEVER ONEBADCHANGE

Gapped early, rode cones whole trip, edged a tired foe to save show slot. Another one that will benefit because she rarely makes breaks. Slow and steady.

over an entire year and then again last year. He still has a lot to prove.

"I think Always Bet De Grey has a chance," said Brown of the 3-year-old homebred son of Always A Virgin. The Indiana-bred captured the rich Super Final against horses that were more than competitive in the Breeders Crown. With four wins in seven starts exclusively in Indiana, Always Bet De Grey took a 1:50 3/5 mark.

"There are so many opportunities in Indiana for a young horse that you really don't have to stake them that much," said Brown. "He's eligible to the North America Cup and a few others including the Jug."

Always Bet De Grey is the third foal and first colt from the Bettor's Delight-sired mare Life Of Delight, owned by Bruce Trogdon's Emerald Highland Farms.

Larrys Petrock, a gelding from the first crop of Pet Rock, debuted for Brown in a qualifier last June at Delaware with a handy 1:58 score and a 27-flat final quarter. Finishing fourth in that race was Done Well.

"We've got him eligible to the North America Cup," said Brown, who will reunite with Larrys Petrock when his stable ships north in the spring.

While it is still very early in the 3-year-old season, it's hard not to be impressed with Larrys Petrock's debut, a 1:54 mile where he stormed home from some 15 lengths back at the half mile mark, including a 26 2/5 final quarter.

fourth weeks of March at Spring Garden Ranch.

With 75 2-year-olds in training, Brown is hopeful that he'll have a host of top quality colts and fillies come this spring to baby race.

"Less than 15 of them are struggling in one way or another," said Brown with hope.

While the stable is heavily weighted towards younger horses, Brown sounded quite hopeful that he would have a place in some of this year's aged events. Blazin Britches, a winner in 11 of 15 starts as a sophomore with earnings above $500K in 2017, is on schedule for her 4-year-old return in a few months.

Brown seems excited about the 2018 return to the racetrack for Muscle Network. The now 7-year-old son of Muscle Hill has spent the last two years as a stallion, but the trainer says that was by design.

"He's had some knee problems," said Brown. "The owners (Frank Bellino & Sons) made the decision to give him a few years off and then try to bring him back." Muscle Network stood in Ohio in 2016 and 2017 and is well on his way back to the races. "He's a beautiful looking horse. I've been in 2:15 with him," said Brown.

Muscle Network will be put in four or five major stakes races including the Breeders Crown according to Brown. "We're going to keep him off the half-mile track," Brown said, obviously concerned about the horse's prior soundness issues.

For Brian Brown it's impossible to replace two horses that graced his stable and winner's circles throughout North America over the last two years. However, with an expanded stable and a large and diverse population of juveniles, the stable could make an even greater impact in 2018.

Dec. 28, Uriel delivered Stoebe her first win as both a driver and trainer in an amateur race at the Meadowlands.

"It was pretty exhilarating," Stoebe said. "To be honest, it took until I'd turned around and was heading back (to the winner's circle) to even believe it happened and was real."

Stoebe and Uriel were never threatened in the race, winning by 7-3/4 lengths at odds of 64-1. The margin of victory contributed to Stoebe questioning whether it was real.

"I kept looking back, wondering where everybody else was," Stoebe said, laughing.

"I was up by like five (lengths) at the half and I got to three-quarters and they were still back there.

I crossed the finish line and I looked back and everyone was way back there. I thought, did I miss something? Was

HE GRINS AGAIN

Out past half, gapped flow far turn, failed to get into it. Post relief noted.

STORMING D ODDS

Led into turn, yielded, tracked to lane, never fully free. Looks like a gimmick must in here.

MYSTERY DRAGON

Left 3wide, parked quarter, pushed to half, yielded, gapped out far turn. Needed post relief a plus for him.

HAPPY HEATH

1st over half, rim balance, driven to narrow gap. Luke returns. Occasionally fires out. Usable.

BUZZ LIGHT

Bumpy into turn one, soft trip to lane, mild traffic, fair. Extra week off. Nick returns. Can also play.

CRASH AND BURN

Looped, 3wide mid turn, parked half to clear, attacked into lane, held fair considering. Decent form. Probably firing out again.

LAISSEZMOIPICOLER

Looped leaving, parked half turn, back out 1st over past half, battled balance, tough to wire. Might also add to the speed equation.

there a recall? What happened? Is this real?"

Stoebe and Uriel have yet to add to their win total since that night, but have finished off the board only twice in six races this year.

Stoebe plans to continue racing in amateur events, but might cut back when Bittle's stable begins racing its six 2-year-olds later this season.

"I'm looking forward to the summer with them," Stoebe said. "I love driving and I love my horse, but my driving might take a backseat a little then.

"I love driving, but I love training and seeing how the (young horses) go from not knowing anything to the racetrack. That's why I love horses; you get to see them learn things every single day.

You get to see your work shine through them. They pay you for your time. It's a very rewarding job."

SOUL DIVA

Left with many, parked full attacking, faded out final turn. Back inside. Not impossible.

DICKIES MOTEL

Asked to keep up past half, loose cover far turn, failed to get involved. Drops. Maybe.

ROCKIN REPEAT

Left well, soft trip to lane, benefited inside traffic, urged. Nick's back, his choice.

DOUBLE MYSTERY

Settled early, followed fav out late last turn, urged to save show slot. One more in the mix.

WIZZEL STIX

Broke before the start, disappeared. Gerry returns. Little iffy now.

SPEAK ENGLISH

Far back early, rode cones to lane, no late moves. Minor post relief.

DUET

Moved from back with excess last turn cover, failed to get into it. Luke's back. Segues from claimer.

LUST

Rode rail in return, some urging, fair tuner. Steve's choice. Tighter now?

CORDEES FANTASY

Parked eighth to clear, attacked balance, finally faded out deep in the drive. Further outside. Still a price look.
