Waco Hanover, 42, dies

by Ken Weingartner

Waco Hanover, whose longevity led to stardom well after his career on the racetrack concluded, died Saturday (Feb. 9) at the age of 42. The CBS Sunday Morning Show, which two years ago featured Waco Hanover and his relationship with caretaker Donnie MacAdams, reported Waco Hanover's passing on its Facebook page Monday (Feb. 11).

A son of Tar Heel out of Wanda Hanover, Waco Hanover was owned by Everett Kettler of Vermont. Kettler bought the gelding in 1983 at the age of 6 and spent the summers racing Waco Hanover at the fairs in New England. Following Waco Hanover's retirement from racing at the age of 14 in 1991, Kettler retained ownership of the horse and maintained his share of a farm where Waco Hanover resided for the remainder of his life. Waco Hanover was among the horses featured in the book Standardbred Old Friends, published in 2014, by author Ellen Harvey and photographer Barbara Livingston.

"There was something in his efforts that inspired tenacity in my life," Kettler told Harvey. "Perhaps I appreciated Waco because of a common trait. Or maybe he inspired tenacity that wouldn't have been available without his life intermingling with mine."

THEREALGOODS

First over past half, sped by fave into lane, caught near wire by last to first flyer. Post relief and Nathan hops aboard. Obvious use.

READ ME MY RIGHTS

CENALTA DRAGSTER

Led early, yielded, tracked to final bend, followed winner out, driven to narrow gap. Adds Rene and fresh Lasix.

SUN BEAU TOUGHIE

Parked turn, no pressure to far turn, opened up went attacker broke, pretty easy. Better post but tougher opposition. How far can he go?

KABOOM POW

Ships in from New York after so-so campaign at the Meadows. Obvious danger if he's ready.

BRUSHIN ALBERT

Tracked to far turn, angled out, didn't sustain the move. Adds Steve. Tough post. Longshot.

WINKWINKNUDGENUDGE

Shot to top, no pressure to far turn, put up little resistance when attacked. Note: Speed not good on 2/16. James choice over 2 others.

During the latter part of Waco Hanover's life, the gelding was looked after by MacAdams, who cared for Kettler's horses. The story of their relationship appeared on CBS Sunday Morning in January 2017. Two months later, MacAdam's was a guest of former Sen. Bill Bradley on his Sirius XM show "American Voices."

In 2001, Hanover Shoe Farms-bred colts and fillies set the all-time earnings record regardless of breed with a total of $21,372,418. Hanover Shoe Farms continues to lead money earnings of North American breeders with $19,620,934 in 2006 and has topped the list already in 2007 with over 2.7 million as of 3-22-07.

Since the USTA began compiling breeder's statistics, Hanover Shoe Farms has led the annual money-earnings totals every year. The famous Pennsylvania nursery has been a world class breeding establishment for nearly three-quarters of a century. Hanover sires have also produced a multitude of winners of harness racing's most prestigious events such as the Hambletonian, Kentucky Futurity, Little Brown Jug and Breeders Crown.

In the early 1900's Lawrence B. Sheppard, then in his twenties and a junior partner in the Hanover Shoe Company, supplied the drive and vision to transform the Hanover Shoe Stables into Hanover Shoe Farms. This transformation began in 1922 when Sheppard began replacing the modest, mediocre stock with some of the finest racehorse of the era, with Baron Worthy and Peter Manning among them. But it was in 1926, when Lawrence Sheppard boldly bought a 69-horse package from the estate of A.B. Coxe, that Hanover truly burst upon the national scene.

For the next 42 years, young Sheppard was determined to keep Hanover as "The greatest name in harness racing." He got no argument from the woman he married, a San Antonio belle named Charlotte Cassin Newton, who shared his great love of horses. And his constant quest for excellence caused him to select John F. Simpson, a successful young horseman, as his ultimate successor at the helm of Hanover Shoe Farms. The history of any breeding farm is a chronicle of its stallions. Hanover has historically been home to many of the sport's most prolific sires. From the early years of harness racing's first Hambletonian winner Guy McKinney and the world champions Dean Hanover and Billy Direct; to the post World War II era of Star's Pride, Adios and Tar Heel; to the late 70s, 80s and early 90s with Super Bowl and Albatross.

With Tar Heel and Star's Pride under the Hanover roof, Sheppard possessed awesome breeding power at both gaits, but he still wasn't satisfied. John Simpson had convinced him that Hanover needed Adios, Delvin Miller's dazzling, young Hal Dale son, and he set out to land him. The price was steep-the steepest ever at $500,000-but Sheppard raised those funds by selling one-third interests back to Miller and to fellow Pennsylvania breeder, Max Hempt.

In 1972, Simpson and Hanover added another pair of sparkling prospects which turned out to be "the franchise" for two decades-trotter Super Bowl and pacer Albatross.

Keeping Hanover Shoe Farms above all rivals has meant considerably more than merely adding a stallion or two every couple of years. Broodmares were crucial to the breeding game as well, and no one knew that better than Simpson. Lawrence Sheppard was always game enough to pay princely sums for promising sires, but never grew accustomed to meeting the steadily rising prices affixed to well-bred mares. He paid the big price when he had to, but he growled about it every time.

John Simpson never strayed from his avowed goal of maintaining the Hanover broodmare flock as the best in the world, whatever the cost. "No breeding farm is going to reach the top, or remain on top, unless it consistently strives to improve its band of mares," said Simpson. It has cost Hanover millions of dollars to continue its edge in the broodmare derby, but it's been
